

Global Research and Development Report

Section 1: Executive Summary

Artificial intelligence has revolutionized the way we process complex documents. To the keep the original layout, users can read the translated text exactly the same position than the source document, preserving graphs, tables and images.
